

DANIELLE MOSER

Danielle Moser is a Career & Executive Coach who helps her clients “WORK BETTER, LIVE BETTER” - because life’s too short for work to stink. When work is good, life is good. And, when work isn’t good, it can have a profoundly negative impact on all areas of your life.

She began career coaching in the early 1990s while living and working in Europe. She has had the good fortune to work with a myriad of industries - from retail to hospitality, aerospace to defense, healthcare to high tech, telecommunications to manufacturing, and many more.

One of her absolute passions is facilitating helping her clients BRAND themselves - that is, assessing their strengths and determining best next steps. She recently co-authored a book on the subject

Since 2006, she’s been considered a subject matter expert in using Social Networking tools to facilitate the career management process, including managing your online reputation / brand.

Having made several career changes herself, Danielle is better able to guide clients through the process. Before focusing on career and executive coaching, she had several careers including retail management, management analysis, corporate training, and organizational effectiveness.

Danielle's clients often comment how quickly she was able to understand where they were in the process, where they wanted to go, and then jump right in to help develop an actionable plan to get them there.

Expertise:

- Career Assessment & Development
- Leveraging Social Media in Career Search
- Group Training & Facilitation
- Coaching
- Strengths Identification & Development
- Managing Your Online Reputation
- Retention & Engagement
- Personal Branding (author on the topic)
- Recruiting & Talent Acquisition
- Blended Learning Solutions

Danielle Moser (continued)

Experience:

- Coached candidates to manage their long-term (i.e. sustainable) employability; clients ranged from individual contributors to c-level executives. Sought after by executives based on ability to 'get to the heart of the issue' and identify, with laser-like focus, viable option and solutions.
- Recognized for strengths in researching and evaluating employment market trends, and designing and delivering coaching and training solutions to assist clients in achieving career goals/success.
- Served as Subject Matter Expert on cutting edge topics such as Leveraging Social Networking Applications in Search; Utilizing LinkedIn, Twitter and Facebook; and Managing Your Online Reputation.
- Specialized in partnering with senior-level clients to leverage core competencies and strengths as part of individuals' efforts to either succeed within existing role or land a new career/position that allowed them to thrive professionally. Provided onboarding coaching which facilitated a smoother assimilation to new role.

Education:

Doctoral Coursework in Leadership Studies, University of San Diego

M.Ed., Human Resources Development, University of Southern Maine

B.S., Business / Marketing, Providence College

Graduate Assistant, Dale Carnegie Programs, Portland, ME

Certified: MBTI ®, MRG's Strategic Leadership Development (LEA), Strong Interest Inventory, Career Anchors, Strengths Deployment Inventory (SDI), and a variety of proprietary corporate programs

